General article on car choosing

When you choose a car for yourself, it is important to establish your current and future need. Do you need to buy cheap car due to your financial situation or the fact that your purchase is for your child going to college? Do you buy old car because your "reliable" car conked out right before you were months from making the buy new car.

The best new car prices are typically found at dealerships around the months of October and November. This is due to the dealership's desire to purchase new model year vehicles. Taxes being owed on the overall inventory currently on a dealer's lot also is a motivating factor for the dealer to reduce car prices around the first of January. These are the best times to make a purchase of a newer model car.

If you are looking for a good, clean car that has been used, but well maintained, you might look into program cars. These are the cars the dealer has used for rental cars and provided to those customers whose autos are being serviced at the dealership. As with any used car, if you buy rental car, it is important to know whether or not the car has been repaired due to a major accident. These include damage to the frame of the car or other structural repair. If this is the case, it is advisable to keep looking.

Many individuals choose to buy classic car for hobbies, contests, or sentimental reasons. Remembering the way cars used to be is a nostalgic way to bring back the past. For some, the car they drove at the time was the first place they kissed that special someone. Maybe the car was wrecked and buying that old classic car gives the buyer a "second chance" with the car. There are several reasons one might choose to purchase a car to fix up. The experience alone is valuable in that once that type of car is worked on; the applications may be passed on to the efforts of fixing other vehicles.

Whether you are making the purchase of a car for the first time or have already bought lots of cars, the excitement from making the purchase and sitting in your "new" car for the first time never goes away. Maybe you've always had "hand me down" cars and this is the first new car you've ever owned, it doesn't matter...the same feelings come over someone who owned a car and then, for whatever reason, is driving a different one. If you prefer to ride motorcycles, then make sure that you are insured, carole nash offer great motorbike insurance deals.

The other exciting thing about buying a car is that "new car smell". I don't know what bottle it comes out of, but the car dealerships have someone cleaning those cars with the secret ingredient! Even used cars smell brand new by the time they hit the "For Sale" lot! There are bottles in the second hand stores that say they have "new car smell", but it lasts for thirty seconds and then goes away. For anyone buying a new car, the smell stays longer than they realize.

Take some time to figure out why you are buying a car and what your needs are and will be. This will help you make the right choice for you.
